'Rising Star' Scott Montgomery at October Meeting

This month we are pleased to welcome up-and-coming organist Scott Montgomery, winner of the 2006 National Young Artists Competition at the AGO Convention in Chicago. He is the first person in the history of the competition to win both the first prize and the audience prize. An interview-style program will provide an opportunity to hear about Scott’s training and experience, and how he prepared and selected repertoire for the competition. We’ll also get to hear him perform.

Our host is at St. Peter’s Episcopal Church is Bill Aitken. Thanks to the generosity of St. Peter’s rector and St. Louis AGO member, Rev. Jim Purdy, we are also inviting local students who attended the June POE to join us.

Scott will present a recital on the church’s 2001 Mander instrument the following evening, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m. The program will include works by Johann Sebastian Bach, Georg Bohm, Felix Mendelssohn, Pamela Decker and Max Reger. The recital is free and open to the public.

A native of Illinois, Scott began piano lessons at the age of eight and was immediately fascinated by both church and theatre organs. By age 10, he was playing Organ Performance, a prize which included the Lilian Murtagh Memorial Award. Prior to this, however, he was successful in a number of other competitions. In 1997 he won the AGO Region V competition in Indiana, and has since performed widely throughout the Midwest. He was featured in the “Rising Stars” concert at the 1998 National AGO Convention in Denver, and won second place in the 2002 Arthur Poister National Organ Playing Competition in Syracuse, N.Y. In addition, he was the first recipient of the 2002 M. Louise Miller Scholarship sponsored by the Greater Bridgeport AGO chapter. His performances have also been broadcast on American Public Media’s Pipedreams.

He is director of music and organist for Holy Cross Catholic Church in Champaign, Ill. He graduated with a Bachelor of Music degree in organ performance from the University of Illinois in May 2005 and is currently pursuing a Master of Music degree as a student of Dr. Dana Robinson.

This month you will get to meet Scott Montgomery, the young man from Illinois who won the Young Artists Competition at the Chicago national convention. When he speaks on Monday evening, I’m hoping to hear about how he got interested in playing the organ. We all can remember the path we took to the organ – my mother was an organist, and I knew very early that I wanted to follow her.

The console where I play at First Church of Christ Scientist is completely hidden by a wooden panel. I often get requests from Sunday School children who sit there during the service wondering where the music comes from to see the organ. Last week it was two 4th grade girls who arrived at the organ, parents and siblings in tow.

Suddenly the console was surrounded by a half-dozen wide-eyed children. “You’ll each get a turn to sit on the bench and play – who wants to go first?” and off we went through the lowest, highest, softest, and loudest sounds, the flutes, clarinet, trumpet and chimes. They left in a chorus of thank-you’s. To the parents’ thanks, I said this is the way I hope to create interest – to find someone to replace me on the bench when I retire.

Under the energetic leadership of the Young Organist Committee, the St. Louis AGO Chapter has reached out to the next generation of organists through a series of young people’s events. Those efforts culminated in a very successful Pipe Organ Encounter last June – and many comments of “let’s do this again in a year or two.”

Keep reaching out to the children at your church. It can be a structured program like Wayne Leopold outlined in The American Organist, or just spur of the moment. You may be starting the career of a new rising star.

Circulation Problems

The September OPUS issue was not delivered despite the fact that it was taken to the bulk mail center downtown on Sept. 11, and was sent out from there the same day. We are trying to determine what happens in the distribution process after items leave the bulk mail center.

Wayne King, the newsletter editor, sends the content of OPUS to Lisette Christianson, our Webmaster, as soon as he finishes the production. It is posted on the chapter Web site and can be accessed at www.agostlouis.org. Click on “Newsletter” in the left menu column. When the OPUS page comes up, it will say “Pdf file” in the upper left corner. If you have Adobe Acrobat Reader (free download) installed on your computer, clicking on “Pdf file” will open a printable version of OPUS. Either print the entire document, or the page you want (concerts, directions to meeting, jobs, etc.). The new issue will generally be available about the 10th of the month. All items except ads are readable on the Web site if you don’t want to or can’t print the issue.

This is another reminder that you need to think ahead for posting concert events. Please get your items for December and January to Wayne NOW! The November issue calendar will begin with dates about Nov. 15. There will not be a December OPUS issue.

In Remembrance…

Marjorie Psalmonds, long-time Guild member and local piano and organ teacher, died Saturday, Sept. 21, at age 91. Mrs. Psalmonds was a music educator to many, teaching in Baptist universities in Phoenix and St. Louis for over 28 years, and directing church choirs for more than 45 years. In recent years, she lived with her son in Georgia. Send condolences to the family: Jon Psalmonds, P.O. Box 189, Jonesboro, GA 30237 or online guest registry of Cannon Cleveland Funeral Directors (www.cannon-cleveland.com).

Roy Salzman, former dean of the Gateway East AGO chapter, long-time employee of Shattinger Music Co., organist for several churches in the Metro East, and friend to many organists, died on Sunday, Sept. 10, after a long illness. Send condolences to: Mrs. Betty Salzman, 19 Iris Drive, Granite City, IL 62040

Phil Rowland Injured

Phil Rowland, long-time Guild member, past dean, and organist at Central Presbyterian Church in Clayton, suffered major head injuries in a fall from his bicycle on Sept. 1.

Phil is now at home, but is receiving out-patient therapy treatments for remaining problems with hearing, balance, and short-term memory. His overall prognosis is good and a complete recovery is anticipated. and hope to see everyone at church in the next few weeks.
