Thomas Trotter is one of Britain's most widely admired musicians. The excellence of his musicianship is reflected internationally in his musical partnerships. He performs as soloist with, amongst many others, the conductors Sir Simon Rattle, Bernard Haitink, Riccardo Chailly and Sir Charles Mackerras. He has performed recitals in Berlin's "Philharmonie", the "Gewandhaus" in Leipzig, both the "Musikverein" and the "Konzerthaus" in Vienna and London's Royal Festival Hall. He has given the opening recital on new or restored organs in places such as Cleveland's Severance Hall (Ohio), Princeton University Chapel (New Jersey), the "Concertgebouw" in Amsterdam and at St David's Hall in Cardiff and he is regularly asked to perform on major historic instruments such as those at St. Ouen in Rouen, St. Bavo's in Haarlem (Netherlands), Weingarten Abbey in Germany and Woolsey Hall at Yale University. He appears at the festivals of Salzburg, Berlin, Vienna, Edinburgh and London's BBC Proms. He performs with leading orchestras such as the Vienna Philharmonic, Berlin Philharmonic, London Philharmonic and Royal Philharmonic orchestras and made his first US appearance with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra in 1987. And he was made an exclusive recording artist for Decca in 1989.

Thomas Trotter was appointed Birmingham City organist in 1983 in succession to Sir George Thalben-Ball. He is also Organist at St Margaret's Church, Westminster Abbey, and Visiting Professor of Organ at the Royal College of Music, London. He was organ scholar at King's College, Cambridge and later continued his studies with Marie-Claire Alain in Paris, winning the Prix de Virtuosite in her class. He was first prizewinner at the 1979 St Albans International Organ competition, and the following year he made his debut at the Royal Festival Hall, London. In May 2002 he was the recipient of the Royal Philharmonic Society award for Best Instrumentalist in 2001, the first organist to win this award. Past winners include Andras Schiff, Itzhak Perlman and Julian Bream.

Alongside his weekly recitals in Birmingham, Thomas Trotter has toured throughout the USA, Europe, Australia and Japan, and has played at prestigious venues such as the Zurich Tonhalle, Amsterdam Concertgebouw and Leipzig Gewandhaus as well as many International Festivals such as Bath, Salzburg, Edinburgh and the Proms. He has performed with leading orchestras including the Royal, the London, the Vienna and the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestras. Of his dozen or so recordings his Messiaen and Mozart releases were named Gramophone magazine's 'Critics Choice', and a Liszt recording won a Grand Prix du Disque in 1995. He has served on many International juries including the St Albans, Nuremberg and Maastricht competitions as well as the BBC's Young Musician of the Year.

MEMBERS NEWS

Thomas R. Pearce has been appointed Senior Editor for MorningStar Music Publishers of St. Louis, effective September 1, 2003. He has served as part-time editor since the company was formed in the fall of 1986 and edited the first-issue publications released in the spring of 1987. Prior to that time, he served as a part-time editor for the Concordia edition of J.S. Bach's Orgelbüchlein and also for the Concordia Hymn Prelude Series.

Mr. Pearce leaves the position of Director of Music-Organist at St. Paul United Church of Christ, Belleville, IL, where he served as organist, directed the five adult choirs and handbell ensembles and administered the Fine Arts Series. He is a graduate of Washington University in St. Louis, a past Dean of the St. Louis Chapter AGO, and a member and former workshop leader of the Association of Disciple Musicians.
